

Objectives

- The Fund seeks a high rate of total return consistent with long-term preservation of capital.

Strategy

- The Fund invests in bonds and other debt instruments of issuers from at least three different countries, including emerging market countries. The Fund invests in both U.S. dollar-denominated and non-U.S.-currency-denominated debt instruments, including, but not limited to, government and government-related obligations, mortgage- and asset-backed securities, corporate and municipal bonds, and other debt securities.
- The proportions of the Fund's assets held in various debt instruments will be revised in light of Dodge & Cox's appraisal of the global economy, the relative yields of securities in the various market sectors and countries, the potential for a currency's appreciation, the investment prospects for issuers, the countries' domestic and political conditions, and other factors. In selecting securities, Dodge & Cox considers many factors, including, without limitation, yield, structure, covenants, credit quality, liquidity, call risk, duration, and capital appreciation potential.
- The Fund may enter into currency or interest rate-related derivatives, including forwards, futures, swaps, and options.

Risks

- The yields and market values of the instruments in which the Fund invests may fluctuate. Accordingly, your investment may be worth more or less than its original cost. Debt securities are subject to interest rate risk, credit risk, and prepayment and call risk, all of which could have adverse effects on the value of the Fund. Investing in non-U.S. securities may entail risk due to foreign economic and political developments; this risk may be higher when investing in emerging markets. The Fund's use of derivatives involves risks different from, and possibly greater than, the risks associated with investing directly in securities and other more traditional investments. Please read the prospectus for specific details regarding the Fund's risk profile.

^(a) Effective May 1, 2017, Dodge & Cox has contractually agreed to reimburse the Fund for all ordinary expenses to the extent necessary to maintain Total Annual Fund Operating Expenses at 0.45% through April 30, 2018. The term of the agreement renews annually thereafter unless terminated with 30 days' written notice by either party prior to the end of the term. For periods prior to May 1, 2017, the Fund's Net Expense Ratio was 0.60%.

^(b) SEC Yield is an annualization of the Fund's net investment income for the trailing 30-day period. Dividends paid by the Fund may be higher or lower than implied by the SEC Yield.

^(c) The Fund may classify an issuer in a different category than the Bloomberg Barclays Global Aggregate Bond Index. The Fund generally classifies a corporate issuer based on the country of incorporation of the parent company, but may designate a different country in certain circumstances.

^(d) The Fund's portfolio holdings are subject to change without notice. The mention of specific securities is not a recommendation to buy, sell, or hold any particular security and is not indicative of Dodge & Cox's current or future trading activity.

^(e) The credit quality distributions shown for the Fund and the Index are based on the middle of Moody's, S&P's, and Fitch ratings, which is the methodology used by Bloomberg in constructing its indices. If a security is rated by only two agencies, the lower of the two ratings is used. Please note the Fund applies the highest of Moody's, S&P's, and Fitch ratings to comply with the quality requirements stated in its prospectus. On that basis, the Fund held 13.5% in securities rated below investment grade. The credit quality of the investments in the portfolio does not apply to the stability or safety of the Fund or its shares.

^(f) Excludes the Fund's derivative contracts.

^(g) Net Cash & Other includes cash, short-term investments, derivatives, receivables, and payables.

The Dodge & Cox Global Bond Fund had a total return of 2.3% for the second quarter of 2017, compared to 2.6% for the Bloomberg Barclays Global Aggregate Bond Index (Bloomberg Barclays Global Agg). For the six months ended June 30, 2017, the Fund had a total return of 5.8%, compared to 4.4% for the Bloomberg Barclays Global Agg.

INVESTMENT COMMENTARY

In the second quarter, the combination of a moderate depreciation of the trade-weighted U.S. dollar, strong corporate bond performance, and relatively stable interest rates levels drove positive global bond returns. Overall, risk sentiment remained positive, despite lingering uncertainties around upcoming central bank actions, scattered incidents of political conflict around the world, and evolving U.S. policies regarding tax, trade, and foreign relations.

The yield premium for the Bloomberg Barclays Global Credit Index fell for the seventh consecutive quarter, boosting corporate bond performance. Corporate bonds constitute a sizable 45% weighting in the Fund, reflecting our relatively optimistic view of the total return potential from the Fund's diverse set of 39 corporate issuers.

Interest rates in major developed economies remained low, despite prospects for reductions in central bank asset purchase programs—a key pillar of the global low rate environment in recent years. The U.S. Federal Reserve (Fed) hiked rates in June and signaled one more hike in 2017. The Fed minutes included details about how the Fed might begin reducing its balance sheet as early as later this year. Although recent inflation readings have been weaker than expected, unemployment is at its lowest level since 2001, and we believe the market is underpricing upside risks to inflation and interest rates. The overall duration,² or interest rate sensitivity, of the Fund remains relatively low to mitigate potential performance headwinds due to rising interest rates.

The trade-weighted U.S. dollar depreciated, particularly versus European currencies. The euro's 7% appreciation was mainly due to reduced fear of a European Union (EU) break-up (following a pro-EU victory in the French elections) and reduced expectations for dovish European Central Bank policies. Most emerging market currencies appreciated, although an 11% decline in the price of oil weighed on the currencies of oil-exporting countries, including Russia and Colombia. We continue to find value in selected emerging market bonds with high nominal and real yields, undervalued currencies, and relatively healthy economic and institutional environments.

SECOND QUARTER PERFORMANCE REVIEW

The Fund underperformed the Bloomberg Barclays Global Agg by 0.4 percentage points during the quarter.

KEY DETRACTORS FROM RELATIVE RESULTS

- The Fund's currency positioning detracted from relative returns, predominantly due to the Fund's lack of exposure to the euro (compared to 23%³ in the Bloomberg Barclays Global Agg), which appreciated 7% versus the U.S. dollar.

KEY CONTRIBUTORS TO RELATIVE RESULTS

- Security selection was strong, led by issuers including HSBC, Rio Oil Finance Trust, Royal Bank of Scotland, and Telecom Italia.

- The Fund's large overweight position in the Mexican peso (9% versus 0.3% in the Bloomberg Barclays Global Agg) added to relative returns as the peso appreciated 3% versus the U.S. dollar.
- The Fund's large allocation to corporate bonds (45% versus 19% in the Bloomberg Barclays Global Agg) added to relative returns as credit yield premiums declined.

YEAR-TO-DATE PERFORMANCE REVIEW

The Fund outperformed the Bloomberg Barclays Global Agg by 1.4 percentage points year to date.

KEY CONTRIBUTORS TO RELATIVE RESULTS

- The Fund's large position in the Mexican peso (8% versus 0.3% in the Bloomberg Barclays Global Agg) added to relative returns as the currency appreciated 14% versus the U.S. dollar.
- Security selection was strong, led by Brazil-related holdings including Petrobras and Rio Oil Finance Trust. Other notable outperformers include Republic of Indonesia, Royal Bank of Scotland, and Telecom Italia.
- The Fund benefited from holding longer-term bonds in Mexico, Colombia, and Peru (13% versus 0.3% in the Bloomberg Barclays Global Agg) as rates declined.
- The Fund's large allocation to corporate bonds (49% versus 19% in the Bloomberg Barclays Global Agg) added to relative returns as credit yield premiums declined.

KEY DETRACTORS FROM RELATIVE RESULTS

- Currency positioning detracted from relative returns, predominantly because of the Fund's lack of exposure to the euro (compared to 24% in the Bloomberg Barclays Global Agg), and also to the British pound and the Japanese yen (compared to combined 22% in the Bloomberg Barclays Global Agg).
- Certain credits underperformed including Macy's and State of Illinois.

¹ The Fund's total returns include the reinvestment of dividend and capital gain distributions, but have not been adjusted for any income taxes payable by shareholders on these distributions or on Fund share redemptions. Index returns include interest income but, unlike Fund returns, do not reflect fees or expenses. The Bloomberg Barclays Global Aggregate Bond Index is a widely recognized, unmanaged index of multi-currency, investment-grade debt securities. All returns are stated in U.S. dollars, unless otherwise noted. A private fund managed and funded by Dodge & Cox (the "Private Fund") was reorganized into the Fund and the Fund commenced operations on May 1, 2014. The Private Fund commenced operations on December 5, 2012, and had an investment objective, policies, and strategies that were, in all material respects, the same as those of the Fund, and was managed in a manner that, in all material respects, complied with the investment guidelines and restrictions of the Fund. However, the Private Fund was not registered as an investment company under the Investment Company Act of 1940 (the "1940 Act"), and therefore was not subject to certain investment limitations, diversification requirements, liquidity requirements, and other restrictions imposed by the 1940 Act and the Internal Revenue Code, which, if applicable, may have adversely affected its performance. Expense reimbursements have been in effect for the Fund since its inception. Without the expense reimbursements, returns for the Fund would have been lower.

² Duration is a measure of a bond's (or a bond portfolio's) price sensitivity to changes in interest rates.
